Lancaster Man Wins Mansfield C. of C. Position

John G. Routzon, 39, Succeeds Williams; Assumes Duties Here April 1.

John G. Routzon, 39, secretary of the Lancaster Chamber of Commerce, was selected today as secretary-manager of the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce.

The appointment of Routzon was announced this morning following a special meeting of the board of directors with a special committee on recommendations.

Routzon will assume his duties here April 1. He succeeds Paul W. Williams, who resigned a month ago to take over the managing directorship of the Chamber of Commerce at Dayton.

4 Recommended to Board.

The announcement was made by Clarence L. Van Derau, president of the chamber, who said Routzon had been selected from four candidates recommended to the board by the special committee.

On a secret ballot taken by both the committee and the board, Routzon was the first choice, Van Derau said.

Among the 35 applicants for the position were Castle Smith, assistant secretary of the Akron Chamber of Commerce; H. O. Fackler, secretary of the chamber at Lima, and J. W. Rinehart, a representative of the Canton Development corporation.

Paul M. Eliot, chairman of the recommendations committee, explained that the committee had narrowed down the field of candidates to the four which were presented to the board of directors today for approval.

15 Years Experience.

Routzon comes to Mansfield with 15 years experience in the commercial organization field. He entered the civic-commercial organization during his senior year at Findlay college in 1923 as assistant secretary of the Findlay Chamber of Commerce.

Upon his graduation with a bacheor of Arts degree in 1924, Routzon went to Van Wert where he remained as secretary of the chamber until January, 1929, when he accepted the assistant secretaryship of the Fint, Mich., Chamber of Commerce.

In 1931 he was made manager of the Flint chamber and held that post for seven years before assuming the secretaryship of the chamber at Lancaster a year ago.

During his term at Flint, Routzon aso served as secretary of the Junior Chamber of Commerce and in 1934 was awarded the organiz-

PEONY FESTIVAL WAS HIS IDEA

New Secretary Brought Fame to Van Wert; Developed Play Lots in Flint.

The man who conceived the idea and fathered the plans for the famous peony festival of Van Wert, annual flower show which brings thousands of tourists into the town, is the man will take over the reins to the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce on April 1.

John G. Routzon, secretary of the Lancaster Chamber of Commerce, and announced today as the successful candidate for a similar post in the Mansfield organization, has left a trial of outstanding achievements behind him in every city in which he has worked.

The peony festival idea was so successful that the annual event is now carried on the national calendars of garden clubs and the American Automobile association, and thousands of visitors gather in the Ohio city each year when the peonies are in bloom, and the city of Van Wert itself has taken on personality from the festival.

Perhaps less known but just as important in a civic way were his "backyard play lots" which he sponsored in Flint, Mich. He induced industrial plants to provide salvaged material for small recreational lots all over the city, in an effort to keep youngsters off the streets. and piles and swings came into existence on hundreds of back lots and each one drew its share of youngsters eager for some place to play.

He also induced industrial plants to give salvaged material to schools for work in manual training classes.

When he left Flint two years ago for Lancaster—when the latter place was badly in need of a

REFUSED FOOD 4 DAYS

Frail 'Hunger Striker' Smiles as Letter Informs Him of Victory in Fight.

(By International News Service)

RAJKOT, India—Dizzy and nauseated after more than four days without food, Mohandas K. Gandhi broke his "fast unto death" today by sipping a glass of orange juice—victor in his battle to win democracy for the small state of Rajkot.

The ascetic, 90-pound leaded of 100,000,000 Indians took his first nourishment since Friday noon upon announcement that his dispute with Thakore Saheb, ruler of Rajkot, had been settled.

Agreement Reached.

It was announced the settlement was reached on the basis of an agreement that Thakore Saheb will implement the promises he previously made to Gandhi regarding a constitution and an advisory council for the state he rules.

The long period of abstinence from food took a heavy toll on the frail physique of the 69-year-old idol of millions of Indian "untouchables." Before his ordeal came to an end, he was so weak he coudn not sit up in bed without attacks of giddiness.

His fast lasted exactly four days, two hours and 55 minutes.

Gandhi's secretary, Mahadev Desai, conferred with the Marquess of Linlinthgow, Viceroy of India, and Edmund C. Gibson, British resident agent of the states of western India, visited Gandhi's bedside.

Receives Message.

A little later, Gibson sent a letter to Gandhi direct from Thakore Saheb. Gandhi opened the letter and smiled joyfully, indicating he once more had won his point.

The Viceroy entered the negotiations upon instructions from London and as a result of appeals from all parts of India, urging him to intervene for a settlement before the fast ravaged the frail body of Gandhi beyond his ability to recover.

Amrine Calls Prisons 'Disgrace' To Ohio, Urges New Institution

Kalbfleisch Protests To Trial Judge

But Huston Refuses to Back Down on Blast at 'Buck-Passing.'

Municipal Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch protested in a telephone message this morning to Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston concerning the remarks the latter made yesterday in sentencing Allen K. Ports, dismissed clerk of municipal court, on an embezzlement charge, but received little satisfaction.

Judge Kalbfleisch said he had sought an appointment with Judge Huston but had been told at the time that he was "too busy" and couldn't see him until this afternoon.

Confirming the telephone conversation with Kalbfleisch, Judge Huston said he did not care to engage in an argument, particularly by telephone.

"Apparently the shoe fits," he said in reference to his pointed remarks directed at municipal court officials yesterday for failing to take action against the former employe when a shortage was found in his accounts.

Refusing to back down on anything he said yesterday, Huston asserted that "I merely made a statement of facts, and I don't see how there can be any answer to it."

Judge Kalbfleisch said, "I consider those remarks entirely uncalled for."

Kalbfleisch added he had called Judge Huston to seek an explanation on "what he had in mind when he made such a statement."

"I can't see that it is proper for me to be disrespectful to the common pleas judge, and any comment I would make regarding his alleged statement would be disrespectful," the municipal judge said.

"I have no apologies to make for my conduct throughout the entire inquiry."

He pointed out that he had gone to Assistant County Prosecutor Harold T. Lutz when irregularities in Ports' accounts were first called to his attention by State Examiner Elmer A. Zook and told him that he believed a grand jury investigation would be necessary upon the completion of the special audit for which he had asked.

"It appears that the judge (Huston) felt that a preliminary charge should have been filed by me in order to hold Ports for the grand jury," Kalbfleisch said.

He asserted that the former clerk had appeared voluntarily before the grand jury and also appeared before court for sentence and for that reason considered the remarks "uncalled for" before sentence was passed.

TWO TRUSTIES ESCAPE O. S. R.

Youths Who Disappeared From Farm Dormitory Believed to Have Fled in Stolen Car.

Authorities throughout northern Ohio were searching today for two escaped prisoners from the Mansfield reformatory, one of whom was due to be released April 15 on parole.

The pair, Larry Baker, 22, sentenced from Hamilton county, and Daniel Wasielewski, 19, Lucas county, both trusties, walked away from the institution late yesterday and are believed to have escaped in a car stolen from the garage of Joseph Kuelling at Springmill.

A posse of guards searched the area in the vicinity of the reformatory until midnight after the youths failed to report for "bed count" at 7:30 p. m. yesterday. Both of them were employed in the dormitory at the institution's farm, Supt. Arthur L. Glattke said.

Authorities immediatly connected the escape with the theft of the automobile after Kuelling reported to Sheriff E. P. Long at 6 a. m. today that a car had been taken from his garage after midnight.

Baker, who entered the institution in March, 1936, under a one-to-15 year sentence for burglary, was paroled recently and was to have been freed in five weeks. Wasielewski was received at the reformatory last Feb. 24 to serve a one-to-20 year term for automobile theft.

MIAJA CRUSHES MADRID REVOLT

Warplanes Fly Over City as Negrin's Successor Fights Uprising of Troops.

(By Associated Press)

MADRID — Warplanes were used over Madrid by General Jose Miaja's new Republican defense government today in an effort to crush an uprising of "some troops" said to have been inspired by communists.

Earlier pronouncements by General Miaja and his defense minister, Gen. Segismundo Casado said that the revolt—an apparent attempt to force continuation of the civil war as opposed to Miaja's expressed desire for a "worthy peace"—was under control.

It was subsequently reported that communists, who had been holding out in a building on the site of an old race track on Madrid's outskirts, had surrendered but that companion forces still were in possession of a few other buildings elsewhere.

The Miaja government, which succeeded that of Premier Juan Negrin and included no communists, tried to reassure Madrid citizens by broadcasts that the populace should not be frightened by the presence of fighting planes over the city.

"It is the old Republican aviation force standing loyally and unconditionally behind the defense counsel government," one radio explanation said.

The revolt developed among troops in the environs of Madrid. In the early morning there was cannon and machine-gun fire in outlying sections and isolated snipers kept up an intermittent fire within the city proper.

Miaja last night became head of the national defense government which succeeded that of ousted Premier Juan Negrin.

REPORT HITS OVERCROWDING AT STATE PEN

Acting Warden Declares 4,200 Packed Into Institution Built for 2,000.

URGES CLASSIFICATION

Confinement of Diseased, Normal, Degenerate Convicts in Same Quarters Scored.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — Broad changes in administration of all Ohio penal institutions and construction of a new prison at the London prison farm were recommended today by Acting Warden W. F. Amrine of Ohio penitentiary.

Amrine, state superintendent of correction, in a report to Welfare Director Charles L. Sherwood declared that conditions at the penitentiary were a "disgrace" to Ohio and urged that immediate steps be taken to relieve overcrowding. The prison is one of the nation's largest, housing 4,200 inmates.

All In Same Quarters.

"It's a disgrace to throw 4,000 people, good, bad, indifferent, diseased, normal and degenerate into one institution as is done at Ohio penitentiary," Amrine said.

Amrine, who was ordered by Sherwood to "clean up" conditions at the 105-year-old midtown penitentiary, which has normal accommodations for only 2,000 convicts, in pointing to overcrowded conditions reiterated charges which have been made since 322 convicts perished in the 1930 prison fire.

Amrine's report also readvocated establishment of a state bureau to classify prisoners. He recommended that the suggested new 2,000-inmate prison be constructed for defectives and custodial cases and that the penitentiary remain an institution for receiving prisoners.

Hits 'Favor Buying.'

Declaring that the public must be enlisted in a campaign to better prison conditions, Amrine said that convicts without money, "influence or pull" should receive the same treatment as men "able to buy favors."

Amrine said that if the new prison, which would be walled like the penitentiary, were located near the London farm certain facilities could be used to serve both institutions.

"In classifying prisoners and deciding what institutions they belong in, I want the aid of a competent bureau of classification," he asserted.

Council To 'Sidetrack' Parking Meter Plan At Session Tonight

As predicted by The News-Journal lasst week, the proposal to install parking meters in the downtown business district will be sidetracked at tonight's meeting of city council.

James E. Crum, chairman of the special committee named to consider the parking meter plan, said he would move tonight to shelve the bill which has already been given two readings and which has been endorsed by the committee.

Crum explained that the committee was of the opinion that the current traffic enforcement program had done the job the meters were expected to do.

A poll of council taken by The News-Journal last week showed that eight members were in favor of shelving the plan. All were of the opinion that the measure should be referred to the commitee where it could be held in abeyance and brought up at any future date for action, if needed.

The Retail Merchants association and the Chamber of Commerce endorsed the parking meters several months ago when they called upon Mayor Claude M. Hunter seeking the installation of the machines as the alternative to what they termed "lack of enforcement" of the city's parking regulations.

With the shelving of the parking meter issue due tonight, council will be asked to transfer $375 within the police department appropriation for the purchase of a new three-wheeled mo-

Tells Institute War Would Mean End of British Empire

A general war in Europe now would mean the end of the already tottering British empire, Eric I. Grimwade, English lecturer and author, forecast last night in a talk in Mansfield Senior high school auditorium.

"We Englishmen expect our vast empire to fall soon, anyway," he said, "but we should prefer to see the end come gradually rather than abruptly in a general war."

He explained that the empire is falling apart because most of the British possession over the world have gained their independence and are virtually of no use to Britain itself.

Speaking before about 700 persons at the third of a series of lectures in the Institute of International Understanding sponsored by the Mansfield University and Rotary clubs, Grimwade said Hitler now holds the key to peace in Europe if he can unify its quarreling little nations.

"The Munich conference last fall helped to promote peace in Europe, but it disappointed Hitler, for he had planned to march his armies into Czechoslovakia," Grimwade said.

"Hitler has fallen heir to a task that France has failed to accomplish—that of bringing a United States of Europe into reality, and a unified Europe is the only means of settling the economic and political differences that have retarded the continent for generations."

The ordinance which will go into effect in 30 days, permits parking on South Gamble street from the first alley south of West Main street to Wall street. A WEDDING of considerable interest in this vicinity is the marriage Sunday of Miss Ruth Howard, Mansfield, and Forrest Maring at the Grace Episcopal church. Rev. M. G. Appropriate nuptial music including "I Love You Truly," "At Dawning" and the wedding march was played by Miss Frances Gordon.

She was attended by her sister, Miss Eilene Howard, Athens, who wore a cyclamen crepe dress with wine accessories and a corsage of sweet peas and roses. Leo Maring, brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

Mrs. H. B. Howard, mother of the bride, wore a navy blue lace dress and a corsage of pink sweet peas, while the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Edward N. Maring, Mansfield, wore black with a corsage of white sweet peas.

In addition to the bridal pair and members of the two families guests included: Horatio Markley, Chesterville, grandfather of the bride; Max Smith, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Gordon, Mrs. Orphia Houseberg and daughter, Florence, all of Mt. Gilead; Mrs. Paul Hair and son, Joe, Chesterville, and Martin Sharp, Columbus.

Mr. and Mrs. Maring left Sunday afternoon for a wedding trip through the southern states, and they will be at home at 171 West Dickson street, early next week.

Willing To Help Children

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

We were both out of work at the time we married. I was 18 and my husband was 21. But things turned out well for us the start. This was because we got encourageemnt from my husband's parents, who said we could live with them until we could afford a home of our own.

Within four months my husband found employment, and we decided to take a small apartment of our own. We had to watch every penny, because he didn't make much, but my husband worked hard and I was thrifty, and we were soon able to afford more comforts. Now we have two grown children, and are willing to help them get their start in life as our parents helped us. If parents would help young people to make a beginning in life, there would be fewer wrecked marriages.

L. P.

Here's a case where that venerable "they lived happily ever after" can be quoted without reservation. Why don't parents who can afford it help along the youngsters? If the old folks are hard up themselves, the risk of an early marriage is distinctly the young peoples' own problem.

Rules For Home Manicure

By MME. QUI VIVE

All women haven't the time to toddle to the beauty works. A tough job may be rushing them. Life may be kicking them around. Home and babies may be tying them down. They have to do the best they can in odd moments. And of all the good look chores the manicure is about the most difficult. The right hand can manage the little sheaths on the left hand, but somehow the left hand doesn't seem to know what it is doing.

Let's find out the procedure. It does not begin with a soapy soaking of the finger nails, but with the filing. Use a long flexible file, shape the rosy sheaths to a point, round the point. Be careful not to work far down at the sides.

Run the orangewood stick under the nail eaves: it will bring out some little shreds attached to the inner surface. Whisk these away with the emery board. Soak the finger tips in warm suds for two or three minutes.

Touch each nail with olive oil or a cuticle cream, work the flesh away from tthe nail base with the orangewood stick, which should be sharpened to a flat, bluntly pointed end. If the skin is not allowed to cling to the nail fabric you'll never suffer from hangnails. If by chance you find any snip them away with the curved pointed scissors, pointing the ends toward the tips of the nails.

Be gentle and cautious when treating the lower portion of the nail. Pushing the flesh back will break it, may injure the maxtrix so the new substance will appear cursed with ridges and white spots. Never cut the cuticle at the base. Lift it, cream it and it will be thin and dainty. Run the stick under the nail eaves, forming a clear line.

Use soapsuds and a brush to remove the oil. Rinse with clear water, dry with a soft towel.

You are ready for the rosy trimmings. Get out the nail veneer. Let the brush drain slightly so the film of polish will be light. Sweep the brush from the bottom of the nail to the top, wipe away any of the liquid that may trickle into the sides of the nails. Whether or not you cover the half moon and the white eave is for you to decide. Some girls do, some don't. There's no rule.

To remove grease stains from a stove sprinkle salt on a stiff brush which has been dipped in hot water and thoroughly scrub the stove.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"And that is my story," Philip Veritzen finished. "When I had mastered the theater, I came to New York. From that moment my life has been public property, as you know."

I nodded. I did know. There were but one or two loose threads, and in the next minute he gathered them up and fastened them.

"The name, Veritzen, I took as soon as I had left Transvania," he said. "It was my grandmother's maiden name. I liked the sound of it, and it was as near mine as any name could ever be."

I heard the catch of his breath, and knew that the brand of the "bar sinister" had burned deep into his soul.

"The fortune my uncle settled upon me I never have used," he said proudly. "I was not permitted to return it, so I have let it accumulate. If I ever need to use it, I shall have a formidable weapon.

"My father's personal patrimony and my mother's modest fortune enabled me to finance those years of study in Paris and the other European capitals, and enabled me to get a foothold in New York. The rest I have done myself."

"There was only one thing I could do for my lost love," the deep, resonant voice went on, "and that was to familiarize myself with her daily life, so that if ever she needed aid, I could send it to her. There never has been a day since I last saw her that I have not known from reliable sources what she was doing. Such espionage comes high, but it pays. Never in all those years was my aid needed, but when at last the time came, I was advised of the plot against her, and was able to serve her and save her with your father's invaluable aid."

"Please do not think that I underestimate what your father did that night," he said. "Everything would have been lost without him. But on the other hand—"

I interrupted him with the resolve to equal his generosity.

"On the other hand, if you had not learned of her peril through your agents, and had not fitted out your rescue ship, my father, in all probability, would have learned of the danger too late to save the queen and her daughter."

I wafted a mental apology to my father for my mendacious speech. But I was glad I had uttered it when I saw the almost pathetic gratitude in Philip Veritzen's face.

"Thank you so much for that assurance," he said. "And now my story is ended, and I come to the real reason why I wished you to come with me and help me arranged an interview with Her Majesty."

"I wish to ask her hand in marriage," he said, "and I do not know whether it will be better to ask her as the man she knows now, Philip Veritzen, or whether I should reveal my real identity to her. I want you to decide for me."

HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, March 8.

A LIVELY and exciting day, with much commotion and perhaps agitation, is forecast by the lunar transits. Things will move under high pressure, with a fine spurt of initiative and enterprise to bring about very desirable culminations of both a practical and romantic nature. Transactions with large interests are probable through new constructive propositions. These may best be attained by shrewd or subtle bargaining, or wire pulling.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may look forward to a very lively and interesting year, with happy fruition of constructive effort and fond ambitions. Practical and soundly-developed projects, with energy and initiative, may find staunch supporters in big business. Co-operation is probable through shrewd or undercover agreements, rather than by direct action.

A child born on this day may have much creative talent, with aggressive and enterprising initiative, although it should not be wanting in measures of tact, diplomacy and finesse. Its versatility assures an active and successful career.

Lenten Fare Includes Crabmeat

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

Here is some more excellent Lenten fare, starting off with a pleasing crabmeat recipe. Crabburgers is the name, but please don't let that frighten you! Many of our readers tried the nut-burgers despite their name, and liked 'em.

This recipe calls for one can crabmeat, one egg, teaspoon mustard, teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, tablespoon drained horseradish, three tablespoons chili sauce, one tablespoon chopped pickle, two tablespoons mayonnaise, teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, teaspoon sugar, two tablespoons bread crumbs, four tablespoons butter. Remove tendons from crabmeat, then flake. Combine with remaining ingredients, excepting butter, and mix thoroughly. Shape into small patties. Dip patties into one-half cup flour, then into one beaten egg and then into one-half cup bread-crumbs. Chill thoroughly. Fry in butter and serve immediately. It serves six.

Fish Creole.

Fish Creole in Rice Ring comes next. It takes one-half medium-sized onion, one-half cup mushrooms, two tablespoons fat, one tablespoon flour, one cup mushroom broth, one cup water, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, one-fourth teaspoon thyme, one bay leaf, two chopped pimentoes, two cups chopped fish, rice ring, lemon, shrimp. Chop onions and saute in fat for three minutes, stir in flour, and, when well-blended, gradually add the liquid, then the seasonings, stirring constantly until thick. Add the fish, which may be tuna, salmon, shrimp or any left-over fish or mixtures. Serve in a rice ring, garnished with lemon and shrimp.

For the rice ring, boil or steam two cups of rice in salted water. Drain and add two tablespoons butter and place in eight-inch buttered ring mold. Allow the mold to stand in a warm place for 30 minutes or bake in a 375 degree Fahrenheit oven for 10 minutes. Unmold on a platter and fill with the fish mixture.

Russian Salad.

A piquant salad balances fish or starchy paste foods nicely. Russian salad is always a favorite, but we have an idea that our version of it is tops. See what you think! We take one cup each cooked carrot cubes, cooked beet cubes, cooked potato cubes, some smoked salmon, French dressing, lettuce, watercress and canned asparagus. Marinate each of the vegetables in French dressing. Line a salad bowl with lettuce, placing shredded outside leaves (considered the most valuable of the lettuce) in the center. Put in each vegetable, using asparagus tips to divide them. Strips of smoked salmon may be placed with asparagus or may be crossed over the vegetables. Add a mound of mayonnaise in the center and a dash of paprika. Serves four to six.

Fish being a major Lenten food, we would like to say something about the cooking of it. To cook fish with the least odor and loss of flavor, use high heat first, then reduce it. Whether you boil, fry or bake it, this rule holds true. The high temperatures sears the surface and retains the meat juices and flavor. A little vinegar added to the dish water in which you are washing plates from which fish has been served, or to the pans in which it was cooked, will prevent fish odors from clinging to them.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

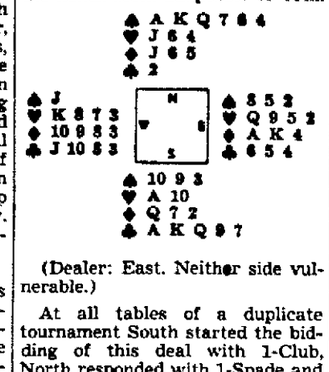
By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

THE NO TRUMP GAMBLE

MATCH POINT DUPLICATE is the greatest of all bridge laboratories. Since the same deal gets played at different contracts, dependent on the tendencies of various bidders, it furnishes evidence on what can occur, much better than the mere conjecture which develops in the post-mortems of rubber bridge.

One of the main points still being tested in the duplicate proving ground is the relative merit of no trump and suit contracts when the hands seem adaptable to both.



(Dealer: East. Neither side vulnerable.)

At all tables of a duplicate tournament South started the bidding of this deal with 1-Club, North responded with 1-Spade and South bid 1-No trump instead of rebidding clubs. North in all cases then rebid at 2-Spades. South then supported at 3-Spades, some Norths going to 4-Spades, some to 3-No trump, having three to the J in the two unbid suits which the partners had indicated they could stop.

Where spades were played, five-odd were made, with the loss of two diamond tricks. North's heart losers were thrown on South's clubs. Where no trump was played, the result depended on the timing.

At some tables, a diamond was led because West did not like to underlead his heart K. East cashed his two diamonds and returned the suit, declarer winning and then running ten more tricks to make 5-No trump, which was top for North-South on the deal. At other tables, where a heart was led or where East switched to a heart after winning the diamond lead, East-West got a heart trick in addition to two diamonds and held North-South to four-odd, which was bottom for them.

So far as the evidence of this deal is concerned, the relative merits of the major suit contract versus no trump is uncertain. There is no argument, however, about the greater safety of the spade contract in rubber bridge.

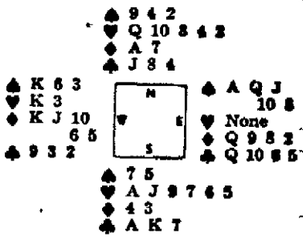
My Neighbor Says:

Some of the hardy annuals can be seeded on frosted ground and will start to grow earlier.

Salmon omelet makes a slightly different, but very satisfying, luncheon or supper dish. Add half a cup of cooked salmon to the regular omelet recipe. Or make the omelet the regular way and surround it with a hot creamed salmon sauce. Both the colors and flavors blend well.

Try varying the ingredients in the mayonnaise dressing you use in salads. To each half a cup of dressing add two tablespoonsful of any of the following: ripe olives, green olives, pimiento-stuffed olives, chili sauce, catsup, horseradish, green peppers, pimientos, cheese, minced ham or other meat, parsley or chutney.

Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

At a heart contract, after three leads of spades, four of trumps and the ace of diamonds, why should East not play his Queen on a lead of the diamond 7?

Lightweight King Heads Armory Glove Card Tonight

Champ Faces McNeil

Lloyd Pine Returns to Local Ring Against Fernandez in First Show of Year.

Tonight's Card

10 ROUNDS

Willie Russell, Columbus, vs. Cleo McNeil, Akron, lightweights.

Lloyd Pine, Akron, vs. Jose Fernandez, Fairmont, W. Va., featherweights.

Jimmy Brown, Canton, vs. Penna Ranzolx, Las Vegas, Mex., middleweights.

FOUR ROUNDS

Principals to be announced in ring.

By OSCAR RUHL,
News-Journal Sports Editor.

PROFESSIONAL BOXING returns to Mansfield tonight after an absence of slightly less than a year.

And, judging from the brisk preshow ticket sale, a good-sized crowd will be on hand to welcome the leather pushers in the Armory at 8:30 p. m.

34 Rounds on Bill.

Thirty-four rounds of fighting are scheduled on the Quality club's initial presentation of the new year, with three 10-round bouts headlining the card.

One of the personalities to strut his wares in the Ashland road sports palace tonight is Willie Russell of Columbus, Ohio lightweight champion.

Another is Lloyd Pine of Akron, who has fought 'em all, including a couple of world champions.

Russell will meet Cleo McNeil of Los Angeles, who is fighting out of Joe Basco's Barberton stable, in what should be one of the classics on the program.

Russell and McNeil fought to a spectacular draw in Lancaster two months ago, and if they go at it tonight in the same fashion, Matchmaker Fred Nolan promises Mansfield fight fans will not be disappointed.

Pine's foe will be Jose Fernandez, a Cuban of Fairmont, W. Va., and as the Akron boy never fails to give a pleasing performance, this scrap should be lively.

Fernandez' chief claims to fame are victories over Johnny Urso, who defeated Pine in his last appearance here; Jimmy Vaughn, Frankie Wilfram and Mose Butch.

Brown Meets Mexican.

The other 10-round bout will pit Jimmy Brown, a Canton middleweight, against Penna Ranzola, who claims Las Vegas, Mexico, as his home. A four-round bout, principals unannounced, will open the show.

Prices for tonight's show will scale down from $1 for ringside to 25 cents for children, with a special general admission ducat selling for 50 cents before 7:30 p. m. The regular general admission price will be 75 cents.

A total of 38 teams participated in the tournament last year, and this record is expected to be broken next week, according to H. W. Zink of Willard, director of the tourney.

Bateman Honored on 1939 High School Team.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Last November a total of 25,342 boys started down the long basketball trail leading to next week's Ohio high school basketball championship tournament at the State Fairgrounds coliseum.

Today the Associated Press presents its second annual All-Ohio honorary teams, made up of the outstanding individual stars of the pre-tournament season.

The class A first team is made up exclusively of seniors, all sixfooters with the exception of Don Bateman of Mt. Vernon, forward, who stands 5 feet 10 inches. All are scoring threats, each topping the 200-point mark for the campaign.

Joe Cornella, Middletown's sensational captain, won the forward berth opposite Bateman, while the first string guard jobs went to Paul Adams, Toledo Central Catholic's fine scorer and defensive star, and Bill Knisely of Xenia, who moved up from the third team of 1938.

CHUCK GETS 18 POINTS, BUT TOLEDO U. LOSES

TOLEDO —(U.P.)— Chuck Chuckovits, University of Toledo basketball sharpshooter, hiked his total points for the season to 437 in 26 games after pushing 18 points more through the nets last night when Toledo lost to Loyola of Chicago, 51 to 38.

Chuck tallied six field goals and six free throws but the Rockets went down to their ninth defeat of the season and fourth in a row. Toledo ends its schedule Saturday night against Loyola at Chicago.

ST. LOUIS TO SHIFT JOHNSTOWN FRANCHISE

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. —(AP)—The St. Louis Browns have jarred the Middle Atlantic Baseball league by deciding to shift their Johnstown franchise to another city, as yet unnamed.

The Johnstown municipal recreation commission announced last night receipt of a letter from William O. DeWitt, vice president of the St. Louis club, telling of the Browns' decision. The letter listed lack of patronage, an unsatisfactory field and financial losses here as reasons for the action.

Pitt Student Body Considers Walkout

PITTSBURGH —(INS)— Repercussions were expected in two Pitt sections—the student body and the alumni—today following the resignation of Dr. John B. ("Jock") Sutherland as head football coach at the University of Pittsburgh.

As administrative officials quietly prepared to pick a successor to fill the wide gap left by Sutherland's departure, rumblings from student and alumni quarters, both of which were pro-Sutherland throughout the seething turmoil, were anticipated.

Although no definite plans had been made, International News Service was authoritatively informed that the student body was considering a general "walkout."

Tribe Rookie Petitions Landis for Free Agency

Outfielder Sodd Claims He Was Farmed Out More Than Three Times In Violation of Rules.

NEW ORLEANS—(INS)—With nine veterans still missing from camp, Manager Oscar Vitt today worked with the handful of regulars and the turnout of rookies present and wondered when he will get a team together.

Sammy Hale, Bruce Campbell and Julius Solters arrived yesterday but Roy Weatherly, Ben Chapman and Hal Trosky of the regulars who have been signed still were absent, the latter with the permission of club officials because he has just become a father.

The sextet of holdouts includes Earl Averill, Rollie Hemsley, Frankie Pytlak, Lyn Lary, Willis Hudlin and Johnny Broaca.

The continued dissatisfaction of Pytlak and Hemsley with the contracts offered them leaves Vitt with a catching staff which consists of Hank Helf, the third-string receiver—and Thursday Old Os must put a team on the field to face the New Orleans Pelicans in the first practice game of the season.

For an outfield Vitt has three regulars on hand, Campbell, Solters and Jeff Heath, and in the infield he has Sammy Hale, whose berth at second base is in doubt. Ken Keltner, Jimmy Webb, utility infielder last season, and set of rookies.

Vice-President Cy Slapnicka also has a problem awaiting him when he arrives in camp. Bill Sodd, an outfielder, who last year played with Wilkesbarre of the Eastern league, a Cleveland farm team, has petitioned Judge K. M. Landis, baseball commissioner, to make him a free agent.

The outfielder said that he played two seasons with Zanesville of the Mid-Atlantic league, another Cleveland farm, and two more with Wilkesbarre. This, he claimed, was in violation of a rule that a player cannot be farmed out more than three times.

Sodd said that the club had ordered him to report to the New Orleans training camp.

Whitehead Absent, Terry Worries.

BATON ROUGE, La.—(U.P.)—Apparent indifference of Second Baseman Burgess Whitehead, who could not play last year because of complications following an appendectomy, had Giant Manager Bill Terry worried today. Whitehead was due in camp yesterday. Terry talked to Whitey's mother by telephone, and she said her son would leave their Lewiston, N. C., home Tuesday or Wednesday.

TAMPA, Fla. — Manager Bill McKechnie warned his Cincinnati Red pitchers to be more careful while hurling in batting practice today. Yesterday Johnny Vander Meer was hit on the left leg by a line drive off the bat of Coach Jimmy Wilson, and Ray Davis stopped one of Ernie Lombardi's bullet smashes with his right thigh. Neither was hurt seriously.

CLEARWATER, Fla.—With Van Mungo signed, Dodger Manager Leo Durocher's holdout headaches were ended today. After Mungo agree to accept $5,000, a cut of $10,000, Pitchers Luke Hamlin, Tot Pressnell and Whitlow Wyatt came to terms. Another pitcher, Bill Crouch, has not signed but has come to an agreement, and Rookie Catcher Chuck George will not be a problem.

LAKELAND, Fla. — Sparkling play by Leslie Fleming, an outfielder from Beaumont, and Frank Croucher, who is seeking veteran Billy Rogell's position at shortstop, was the talk of the Detroit Tiger camp today. Fleming looked well at the plate, hitting far and regularly. Croucher gave one of his best exhibitions of field work of the entire season.

Second Squad Hits For Pirate Camp.

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal. — A second squad of players left Pittsburgh today for San Bernardino to join the Pittsburgh Pirates' training camp. Only Pep Young and Johnny Rizzo boarded the train in the smoky home town, but four others were to join the party en route. They will arrive Friday, when Manager Pie Traynor will have sufficient men on hand to try more than bounce-ball-batter practice.

Legion Upsets 2881; Warrens Rolls 653

Ex-Servicemen Regain Share of Second Place In Club League By Sweeping Series With Grotto.

A 2881 TOTAL by the American Legion club held the scoring spotlight in the Club Handicap league at the Meder alleys last night. Rolling scores of 952, 957 and 972, the Legionnaires swept their series with the Baku Grotto to go into a tie with the Page Dairys for second place.

Brig Young led the Legionnaires with a 629, while Joe Thull contributed a 620.

The high individual total of the evening was turned in by Willie Warren of the Grotto, who blasted uprights for a 653 count, which included games of 219, 214 and 220.

The Mansfield Athletic club, paced by Pete Linster's 613, took two tilts from the Page Dairys to enable the Legion club to regain a tie for the runner-up position.

Winning two games from the Tracy & Avery club, the Schoolmasters held on to their position at the top of the standings. They held their advantage at four games.

Art Hilborn rolled a 601 for the Optimists, who dropped two games to the J. A. C. club. The Kiwanis club took two games from the Commercial Managers, and the Mansfield Savings Bank pinsters won two games from the Liederkranz club.

Gimbel Team Regains Share of Lead.

The Commercial C league race is all tied up again today with the Walters' Barbers and Gimbel's Confectioners sharing first place.

Walters' bowlers lost their undisputed hold on the van at the Meder alleys last night when they dropped one game to the Hecht & Casey Coals, while the Confectioners were sweeping their series with the Lamb's Lincos.

One of the oddities of the Barbers-Coals match was that both teams finished with the same total, 2405. Fritz Vogel led the Barbers with a 575, while Norm Lerner was high for the Coalmen with a 564. Campbell set the pace in the Gimbel-Lamb series with a 566.

Individual scoring honors in the league last night were annexed by Jim Wallace, who pounded out a 599 as he led the Druscel Drugs to a pair of wins over the Levering Dairys, paced by Henke's 568.

The Art Rattans, led by John Kiraly's 576, took a pair of tilts from the Jackson Potato Chips, and Shaw's Jewelers, paced by McKinley, added two at the expense of the Goodrich Silvertown store. Grassick hit 545 as the New Method Laundry took two tilts from The News-Journals.

Yuncker Team Favored in Title Tussle

Faces Westinghouse Club in Playoff Wednesday.

By CHARLES MARTIN

A quintet which has tasted defeat only once during the season will attempt to annex its second straight City Class A basketball league championship in the Senior high gymnasium Wednesday night.

It is the touted Yuncker Sport combine, and it faces a difficult task in the dangerous Westinghouse Electric outfit at 8 p. m. in the feature contest.

Sports Seek Revenge.

There is a question among City league fans as to whether the Sports can successfully defend their title but all indications point to a Yuncker victory.

For one thing, the Sportsmen will be out to avenge the only blemish on their otherwise perfect record, and will turn on the power.

Led by Al Stickler and LaVerne Gray, two of the City circuit's leading scorers, the Yuncker machine presents a club that has chalked up points with ease all year.

Pilot George Percy's Electrics enter the game as underdogs, but so far in the league have played their best games in that role.

The Westies, who handed the Sports their only defeat in 18 league contests, figure they can duplicate their earlier feat. The Electrics main job Wednesday evening will be to devise a defense that will halt the fast-breaking Yuncker attack.

Manager Percy's outfit accomplished the feat once, but whether if can repeat is a question.

Shade Westie Threat.

The Sports principal job will be to stop the high-scoring tactics of Bob Shade, who holds the individual one-game scoring record. The Plant team's forward slipped in 21 points early this year.

Yuncker's five annexed the opening round crown without a defeat, but shared honors with the Westies in both the second and third rounds. The playoff, originally scheduled for three games, was reduced to the single tussle by consent of both team managers.

Hart, Vangler Tangle Friday

Popular Grapplers to Vie in Semi-Final Match.

Frankie Hart, popular Holland light-heavyweight, will return to Mansfield, Friday night for a match with Sammy Vangler of Wheeling, W. Va. The bout will be semi-final to the feature clash between Kimon Kudo of Japan and Whitey Walberg of Duluth.

Hart and Vangler are two of the most picturesque figures in international wrestling circles. Hart was born in Holland, but is now a Canadian citizen. Vangler, was born in Manchuria and has visited nearly every country on earth. He is a naturalized American now.

One of the most popular men ever to appear locally, Hart returns just at the moment when the mat sport is again reaching its pre-depresion peak in this vicinity. Last Friday's attendance shattered all recent records, a great tribute to the effort being made by the Quality club.

The top battle of Friday's program should attract quite a bit of attention, since Kudo is rated No. 2 and Wahlberg No. 4 among the world's light-heavyweights.

CHAPTER THIRTEEN

What, Lona kept asking herself all through the next six hours, while the speeding train carried her toward the grim prison hospital where her father lay dying, would she have done if this thing had happened before she knew Jim? Back in the days when she was alone, broke, jobless and friendless. She shuddered to think of it.

For Jim had taken charge of everything. He'd seen to it that she made the first train south, and made arrangements for a chair when he found there was no Pullman. He'd driven her to the station himself in the same gaudy car they'd used to picnic with in the afternoon, and stood with her hand in his until the train came shrieking into the station. He'd even offered her money. But she waved it back decisively.

"I've enough, Jim. Besides, this is my debt. It's got to be MY money. You see, don't you?"

"Of course, girl. I understand. But if there's anything I can do, you're to wire. You'll remember that?"

'I'll remember, Jim, and — thanks for everything. You seem to be always—helping me out." A little sob choked her, and she clung to him as the warning bell on the train sounded and he had to leave.

"Goodby, girl, and good luck. I'll see Sanders in the morning and tell him what's happened. Don't worry, he'll hold your job until you get back. And don't take it too hard, girl. Maybe it's —all for the best."

With that he was gone, and she was left alone to face the dragging miles between her and her father. Poor, patient Daddy! She realized, as she watched the slow passage of the light-streaked night outside the car window, that in the back of her mind there always had been the hope that some day she would have her father back again. That she might be able to make up to him for what he had suffered. That hope was futile, it seemed. She laid her head on the arm of her chair and sobbed, as the grinding wheels gathered speed.

Dawn was breaking when she stepped, finally, from the train into the station of the state capital.

"Northwestern Penitentiary," she directed the staring taxi driver in a tired voice

"You can't get in there now, lady," the driver objected. "They don't let nobody—"

"It's an emergency," she cut him short. "Take me to the warden's office."

The city was stirring as they flashed through it, the busy, teeming capital city in which her father had lived for so many years now, without ever having seen more of it than she was seeing this very moment. The thought maddened her, and as they aproached the gray stone walls of the forbidding group of buildings where were housed the wards of the state, she could have cried out at the unfairness of it all.

Out of the east the sun had come up rosy and promising. How Daddy had loved the sunrise! Was he seeing it now, she wondered? Was he still—oh, but he must be still alive! He couldn't have—gone until she saw him. The fear that had been eating at her all through the night still nagged her as she forced herself to speak calmly to the sleepy-eyed attendant in the warden's office. She HAD to tell Daddy about herself and Jim! He had to be alive!

She was trembling when the attendant finally raised the warden on the phone.

"He says you're to wait," the man told her. "He'll be right over and take you to the hospital."

"Oh, could you tell me if—it's my father I've come to see. Could you tell me—how he is?"

The fellow shrugged. "Dunno. Is he real bad sick?" His voice was disintérested.

"He's—they've sent for me."

"I wouldn't know about the sick ones." He shrugged "Ain't none of 'em died during the night, if that's what you want to know.' He crossed his feet and looked at the desk impatiently. She got the impression that she had disturbed his rest and that he resented it. She sat very still, after that, until the warden came.

She had met Warden Lewis on her last visit to the place, and remembered him as a big, gruff, wheezing, kindly sort of man. His lined eyes softened when he saw her sitting there, and he came over and took her trembling hand.

"I'm glad you got here, miss," he told her, his manner holding a quaint, old-fashioned deference she would have found charming under other circumstances. "He's been asking for you."

"Oh, may I see him, please? How is he?"

"You must be prepared for a change in your father, miss. He's been sick quite a long time, you know."

"Sick a long time? And I didn't know! I left him here alone and sick. Why didn't you tell me?"

"He wouldn't hear to it. He's an unusual man, your father, miss. You'll have to be a great woman to be worth what he thinks of you. It's a shame, this pneumonia catching him the way it has. Another month and the board would have granted his parole."

"Parole! You mean they would have set him free? Sent him back to me? And I didn't know!"

"Not the way you think, miss. You see, your father's lungs were never very strong. He would have had only a few months anyhow. That's why we were going to parole him . . . But—he's got pneumonia now."

"Is there no hope? Are you sure? Oh, if he'd only live so I could get him out of here! Get him home with me. He could die, then, in peace. You're sure there's no hope? I'll do anything. Anything!"

"Well, of course, I'm no doctor. We thought maybe seeing you might—"

"Take me to him! This minute. What are we waiting for? Take me to him! I'll make him live. He can't die, not now! Not until I have a chance to make up to him. He can't die!"

But the sight of her father's face against the hospital pillow, and the sound of his labored breathing, made her frantic resolution wane as swiftly as it had been born. He was thin, so terribly thin. His hair had whitened since she had seen him, and he looked old and broken.

"Daddy!" She thought she was crying his name aloud, but the word came from her lips in a shocked whisper. "Daddy, it's Lona!" Humbly she went down on her knees beside the narrow bed.

He looked up at her with staring eyes, uncomprehending.

"Lona," he brought out, in a hoarse, changed voice. "Lona! That's my girl. You musn't tell her! Promise me you won't tell her. She mustn't—know . . ."

"Daddy! It's Lona. I'm here! I've come—"

"She mustn't know . . . Lona mustn't know . . ."

"Daddy, please—" she began, her voice raising. But the prison doctor caught her eye and motioned to her with a warning hand.

Don't you know me, Daddy? She braced herself and tried to make him understand. "I'm Lona!" I've come to help you get well—"

"I don't want to get well. She'll be better off if I'm gone. Lona'll be better off without me . . . Do you know my girl? Do you know Lona?" He tried to raise his tortured body on a thin arm and peer at her.

"Daddy! Oh, Daddy!" A sob forced itself through her lips despite her efforts to be calm.

"You won't tell her I'm sick, will you?" the hoarse voice begged. "You won't tell her? I don't want her to know. Lona mustn't know. She's my girl, Lona is. My little baby girl . . ." The voice trailed off in a fit of coughing that racked the wasted frame and caused the doctor to spring forward. Warningly he nodded his head toward the door, and Lona felt the hand of a prison nurse at her elbow, hurrying her outside, pushing her away.

Unresisting, she went, trying to gather together her scattered thoughts. It was hard to believe she was seeing him at last. That pitiful figure was Daddy, her father. When she had known him, he had been straight and upright, with clear eyes. What had they done to him here in this horrible place? She sobbed, suddenly, as the nurse pushed a chair her way and helped her to seat herself out in the hospital corridor.

"You mustn't take it so hard." The nurse tried to comfort her. "He's delirious, you know."

"Will he—do you think he'll know me before—there's something I've go to tell him."

"We'll call you the moment he's lucid," the nurse promised. "There is nothing to do but wait."

STOCK LEADERS REGAIN STRIDE, REDUCE LOSSES

Brokers Cheered by Spring Business Prospects; London Mart Strong.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Leading stocks turned around in today's market and retrieved small portions of Monday's losses.

Edging upward were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, Goodyear, Deere, Douglas Aircraft, Boeing, Glenn Martin, American Telephone, Anaconda, Kennecott, Philip Morris and General Electric.

There was no particular change in the news picture, although brokers thought spring business prospects were cheerful.

There was a selective demand for bonds. Commodities were a trifle mixed. Continued strength of stocks in London was a bolstering influence.

Market analysts saw a favorable sign in the Dun & Bradstreet summary of commercial failures for the week ended March 2, which disclosed the third successive week's decline in the total.

Studied was the report of the Federal Reserve board indicating output of industrial products at the present time is about even with the volume of goods being consumed.

Forecasts were heard in trade circles that, if good weather develops during the balance of March, department store sales may run as much as 5 per cent above those of the 1938 month.

SHOWS BALANCE

Shelby Receives $51,471.99 Above Expenditures.

SHELBY—A sum of $604,330.29 was spent last year for operation and maintenance of the city departments, according to the annual report released today by Finance Director Bert Fix. Approximately the same amount was spent during 1937.

During the year, the receipts from all sources were $655,802.28, leaving a balance of $51,471.99 for the year. A total balance of $142,986 was shown for the past year as compared with only $91,515 for 1937, the figures showed.

The relief program for Shelby cost $9,438.94, while a revenue of only $8,310.83 was available, leaving an overdraft in the relief fund at the end of the year of $1,128.11. Shelby received during the year $3,769.36 from the county commissioners as its share of the taxes for relief purposes.

The $105,000 addition and improvements to the municipal water company and the $200,000 additional and improvements to the city's electric company were started as PWA projects during the past year. The city's share of both projects is $167,775, while federal grants of $137,225 was given by PWA.

PEONY FESTIVAL WAS HIS IDEA

New Secretary Brought Fame to Van Wert; Developed Play Lots in Flint.

"live wire"—he took some of these ideas with him. One of his projects in the latter place was the Chamber of Commerce-sponsored $225,000 hotel. And incidentally, he built the Lancaster organization's membership up 50 per cent.

Routzon has a special interest in Mansfield. It was the home of his wife, the former Carolyn Ashbrook, whose family home was at the northwest corner of Park avenue west and Bowman street. Her father, Charles S. Ashbrook, now of Cleveland, operated a drug store at the southeast corner of Fourth and Main for many years. The family left here about 25 years ago.

Routzon, who began his own career as assistant secretary of the Findley Chamber of Commerce when he was a senior in the Findley college, is particularly interested in the work of the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

When he went to Flint from Van Wert, he was assistant secretary of the senior group and secretary of the junior body. In two years he had become executive secretary of the senior chamber.

When the junior organization made its annual award for distinguished service several years ago, Routzon was chosen for the honor.

Clarence VanDerau, president of the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce, expressed satisfaction today that Routzon had been selected by both the board of directors and the committee.

"He was my choice from the beginning, although it was a difficult decision to make because of the high calibre of the other candidates," VanDerau said today. "He's young, has a fine background for civic work; has a personality that will be an asset to the organization and a capacity for making friends. If anyone can take the place of Paul W. Williams who left here for the Dayton chamber, I feel that Routzon is the man. They are a great deal alike in their ideas and methods."

4 CHILDREN DIE IN FARM BLAZE

Mother Uses Kerosene to Start Fire; It Explodes.

MT. AYR, Ia. — Four children were burned to death today when they were trapped in a blazing farm house six miles south of here.

Their mother, Mrs. Milo Morse, 36, was burned seriously. The father and another child, Everett, 9, were in the barn when the tragedy occurred.

The dead: Ruby Morse, 17; Evelyn Morse, 15; Mary Lou Morse, 10; Bill Morse, 5.

The fire started when kerosene exploded as Mrs. Morse was building a fire in the kitchen. It threw flames over her and the two oldest children.

Famous Relief Giving Tonic Wins Another Friend

World's Tonic Becoming Popular With Housewives.

Constipation's Aches, Pains and Dizziness Make Housework More Difficult.

A new booster and friend was added to the growing list of housewives who have expressed their relief and thanks since using World's Tonic with its roots, herbs and goodly portion of up-to-date alkalines. This time Mrs. Ida M. Fogle, a housewife living at 680 S. Main St., Akron, Ohio, tells her story:

"Most all women who are keeping house for a husband and family take pride in keeping the house neat, clean and in good order. Personally, I used to get a lot of pleasure out of taking care of my home. I didn't mind moving furniture around, trying new combinations with things, a chair here and a table there. We can't all afford to get new things every year or so and these changes now and then give the home a feeling of newness.

"But since I have reached middle age I've been bothered more and more with constipation. Indigestion developed and most any food I ate would turn sour and seemed to curdle and remain in my stomach like a heavy ball. I was frightened by gas causing pressure against my heart. Soon my kidneys appeared to go back on me and I'd get dizzy spells with spots coming in front of me. Drowsy feelings would come on and I couldn't remember where I'd leave things. All this was not without a terrifying assortment of pains and aches and housework was becoming more difficult every day. I was awful blue about this because I took a lot of pride in keeping my house in neat, clean order.

"My first bottle of World's Tonic made a friend of me at once. It just seemed to knock the spots out of all those uncomfortable things that constipation had brought upon me. The relief from the old persistent state of constipation has made me feel better than in many a day. I'm awfully glad that, once again, I can tackle my housework without hesitating and, may I say, thanks for World's Tonic."

World's Tonic is good for young and old. It contains no habit forming drugs or narcotics.

40 Senators Support Legislation to Tax War Profits

LEVIES WOULD RANGE UP TO 97 PER CENT

Measure to Be Introduced in Upper Chamber This Week, Lawmaker Announces.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Senator Bone (D., Wash.) disclosed today that a large group of senators soon would propose drastic tax legislation to take the profits out of war.

His announcement came while the senate approached a final vote on the army expansion bill. It approved yesterday, 54 to 28, a proposal to fix the maximum number of army planes at 6,000, a total of 500 more than the house favored.

Bone predicted the war tax bill would have at least 40 sponsors—or almost half the senate—when introduced later this week.

The legislation automatically would impose a heavy schedule of personal and corporate taxes if the country went to war. The levies would range up to 97 per cent of profits.

"This bill would largely supplant the existing tax system," Bone told reporters, "and would put the country on a strict pay-as-you-fight basis. Under it, it would be impossible for anybody to make much profit out of a war."

Attach It to Bill.

Tax legislation cannot originate in the senate, but these sponsors will try to attach the proposal to some other revenue bill.

Amid cloakroom discussion of the new tax measure, the senate leadership accepted a Republican proposal to limit manufacturers' profits under the army expansion bill. The acceptance cleared the way for passage of the $358,000,000 measure.

Senator Tobey (R., N. H.) advanced the plan to limit profits under the bill to 10 per cent—a limitation which already is in effect on naval ship construction.

Eight Republicans and one Farmer-Laborite joined with 45 Democrats in supporting the 6,000 army plane maximum, while 15 Democrats, 11 Republicans, one Progressive and one independent voted in opposition.

After the army bill is out of the way, the senate is expected to take up the $65,000,000 naval air base bill. This contains the administration proposal to improve harbor and aviation facilities at far-away Guam island, which the house struck out.

Several members of the senate naval committee, including chairman Walsh (D., Mass.), expressed doubt that the group would approve the proposed $5,000,000 expenditure at Guam.

Senators Walsh, Andrews (D., Fla.) and Ellender (D., La.) suggested the project might be rerouted through congress as a rivers and harbors improvement instead of a naval measure. This procedure might delay a final decision until next session.

Admiral William D. Leahy, chief of naval operations, renewed a request for the Guam improvements before the senate committee yesterday. He said no nation could raise valid objection to the proposal, which critics have denounced as likely to antagonize Japan.

Divorce Today To Permit Marriage Of Gable, Carole

(By United Press)

LAS VEGAS, Nev.—Mrs. Maria Gable, 48, goes to court today to divorce movie actor Clark Gable. In a formal-five-minute hearing she expected to get her final decree, leaving him free to marry blond Carole Lombard, husky-voiced actress.

Gable, who asked her for the divorce and settled a reputed $300,000 on her to hasten it, stayed in Hollywood making movies and was not represented here by counsel. He had mailed the court a waiver of any opposition.

Their friends in the film colony predicted that after a brief interval Gable and Miss Lombard would culminate their famous romance by slipping away to Mexico or Nevada and marrying

His first wife was a dramatics teacher who groomed him for the stage and movies.

The divorce suit to be heard this afternoon, charges Gable with desertion instead of the usual Nevada grounds of extreme cruelty. The complaint states that they married in Santa Ana, Cal., on June 19, 1931, and that Gable left her in October, 1935.

Faculty members at Senior high school from now on will not have to hunt for a place to park their automobiles at the rear of the school. The lot will be marked off and each teacher who drives to school will be assigned a space in which to park his car. The available ground was cut down when work began on the new shop addition, and what was left was usually taken by students who drove to school.

There is a sentimental significance behind those bright Swiss Tyrolean hats and feathers which the salespeople in Isaly stores are wearing this month. Of course it's "Cheese month" and the stunt has its commercial angle, but back of that is the fact that the present extensive chain of dairy stores is descended from the Swiss dairymen and cheese makers who came to this country and settled in Ohio many years ago. They began by making home-made Swiss cheese and the older Isalys are still known in the industry as the "Swiss Dairymen."

Atty. George W. Biddle is convinced that it's hard to find a place where there are no Mansfielders, after discovering the names of four Mansfield residents on the register at Norris dam in Tennessee a few days ago. Returning from Florida, Biddle said he stopped to see the famous dam in eastern Tennessee and found the Mansfield names had just been written in the book. A short time later he saw an automobile with a Richland county license on the highway near the dam.

TAKES POST AT BOWLING GREEN

Superintendent of Sandusky Schools Accepts Presidency of University.

(By Associated Press)

LIMA — Frank Prout, superintendent of Sandusky city schools for 18 years, today accepted the presidency of Bowling Green university.

Prout was chosen to succeed Dr. R. E. Offenhauer who was killed Dec. 28 in an automobile accident.

Dr. E. B. Pedlow of Lima, chairman of the board of trustees, announced in a terse statement following a three-hour board meeting yesterday that Prout would be given a five-year contract calling for $8,000 the first year, $8,250 the second and $8,500 each the next three.

It was reported that the three Democratic members of the board, L. N. Montgomery of Tiffin, Mrs. Bessie Dwyer of Montpelier and Dr. Pedlow, favored Prout.

E. E. Coriell of Bowling Green was said to have voted against Prout and J. J. Urschel of Toledo declined to vote. The two Republicans failed to appear at a board meeting in Bowling Green last Friday.

Prout taught in Sandusky and Zanesville high schools before going to Chillicothe as high school principal. He became superintendent of schools in Chillicothe before returning to Sandusky as superintendent.

In 1933, former Gov. George White appointed him a trustee of Bowling Green university. His term expired in 1938.

W. W. Ankenbrand, former Mansfield superintendent of schools in Yonkers, N. Y., at one time was considered a candidate for the Bowling Green presidency.

OHIO INVENTOR JAILED AFTER HOUSEKEEPER DIES OF WOUNDS

(By United Press)

CINCINNATI—Georege L. Pownall, 42, inventor and clubman, was in an extremely nervous state in the Hamilton county jail today after confessing that he killed Mrs. Bertha Mae King, 43, his housekeeper, during an argument.

He signed the confession last night, several hours after Mrs. King died from a gunshot wound in the abdomen. The shooting took place early Monday in Pownall's home at New Richmond, O.

Prosecutor Roberts filed second degree murder charges and said he would call a special session of the grand jury to hear them. He said Pownall might be sent to the Lima state hospital for mental examination.

"I'm still foggy about it," Pownall told officers. "She was the woman I was going to marry. I don't know why I shot her."

He denied through several hours questioning that he shot her intentionally.

"If I shot her, I shot her, that's all," he was quoted by Frank A. Roberts, Clermont county prosecutor, Sheriff Garland A. Auxier and Ora Slater, private detective.

Pownall insisted to authorities that Mrs. King obtained a shotgun after arguing with him in his bedroom. He said she was shot in a struggle for possession of the gun.

He said in the confession that he did not recall the nature of their argument. He said that he was in his pajamas but that Mrs. King was fully dressed.

"Bertha took a picture from the wall and threw it, and it almost hit me," he said in the confession.

Pownall called a New Richmond physician after the shooting. He went to the hospital where Mrs. King died on the operating table.

UNIVERSITY IN SHENSI STRUCK BY EXPLOSIVES

Bitter Fighting Marks Close of 20th Month of Nippon's Undeclared War.

(By Associated Press)

SHANGHAI — Japanese planes blasted three centers of China's Communist-dominated northwest today while the severest fighting in many weeks marked the close of the 20th month of Japan's undeclared war on China.

A Japanese communique said 30 planes bombed Yenan, Chinese Communist headquarters in the northern part of unconquered Shensi province, causing considerable damage to the center of the city and a university there.

Twenty other planes attacked military establishments and barracks at Ningsia, capital of the province of that name, northwest of Shensi, according to the communique.

Ten planes raided Tungjwan, at the great bend of the Yellow river, an important station on the Lunghai railway forming part of the Chinese supply route from Soviet Russia.

Spar Inland Drive.

While a long-heralded land offensive into so-called Red Shensi had not materialized, Japanese armies were engaged in operations almost as deep inland—the westward drive in Hupeh province, the heart of China more than 500 miles west of Shanghai.

Simultaneously the invaders were striving to blot out a no-man's land lying between Japanese-dominated Peiping, in the north, and Nanking, in the coastal section of central China, and to rid a vast area of north china of guerilla warriors.

The Chinese, despite repeated defeats, steady loss of territory, enormous financial cost and more than 1,000,000 casualties, still found reasons for optimism.

"Final victory will be China's if we continue the war and wear and tear against Japan for two or three years more," General Cheng Chien was quoted in a dispatch from Chungking, the Chinese provisional capital. He is Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's chief of staff.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Chicago's Mayor Goes to Miami to Rest In Keeping With an Old Tradition

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—Ed. Kelly, mayor of Chicago, just renominated by the Democrats, is visiting Miami on a double mission—to rest from the care of office and to dedicate a plaque to his martyred predecessor, Tony Cermak.

Miami is the regular winter resting place of mayors and underworld leaders of Chicago, and Mr. Cermak was away on one of his frequent resting trips when he was martyred.

Considering that which happened to Mr. Cermak and how, a superstitious man in the place of Mr. Kelly might prefer to remain on the job, which pays the not contemptible wage of $15,000 a year, with no deductions for tardiness or days absent, and all immune to the federal income tax and free of a state tax, of which Illinois has none.

But the office of mayor of Chicago and Jersey City, while they might seem simpler, are much more exhausting than the same office in New York. Mr. La Guardia stays on the job the year around, with the exception of a few hurried political trips looking toward the presidency and official mission, in Washington.

Mr. Hague, the millionaire mayor of Jersey City, who amassed vast wealth by humble frugality on a salary of $8,000 a year, finds it necessary to rest frequently at Palm Beach or in Europe. And Chicago mayors avoid mental and physical breakdown only by dragging themselves away from it all for long periods.

The duality of the Chicago of homes and citizens and the underworld Chicago of gamblers, grafters and racketeers long has imposed a dual office on the mayors. Of course, a mayor could announce that he was mayor of the official Chicago only and recognize the existence of no other Chicago.

But it hasn't been done, and when the underworld moved its winter capital to Miami back in the days of prohibition and prosperity, the city government followed.

But intention of the plaque to Tony Cermak is not quite clear. Obviously, if it is to acknowledge his services to the people of Chicago, then Chicago is the place for it and Miami is presumptuous. The people of Chicago know better than the people of Miami what sort of mayor Tony Cermak was, and if they have refrained from erecting monuments to him, that was no mere negligence, but a positive comment on Tony Cermak by an informed people.

Is the plaque intended to honor Tony's unintentional interception of the bullets which were meant for Franklin D. Roosevelt, the president-elect? If so, why drag down a trainload of Chicago officeholders to witness the rite? Why erect a plaque at all?

A man doesn't get a plaque for accidental death, and nobody has been heard to assert that Tony stepped in front of those bullets purposely. He was, in fact, trying to grab Mr. Roosevelt's ear for a few words on behalf of deserving Democrats.

If plaques are to be raised to martyrs, Al Capone would be a more deserving subject. Mr. Capone is one of the living dead, and his condition is chargeable to his immurement and treatment on Alcatraz, the soundproof prison. It wasn't because he was rude that Capone went to Alcatraz. On Alcatraz he couldn't talk to reformers, reporters or rival politicans.

Capone suffered more than Tony, and his long passion and consequent lunacy obliterated the crimes of many Chicagoans, including, no doubt, some in the present delegation.

Hollywood Speaks—

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Shake hands today with a man who has been all washed up—by Hollywood—twice before but is about to have the last chuckle.

His name is Richard Dix. "Great star in his day." That's what they said about him 10 years ago. And "Yes, but his day's done," they always added.

That was just before Richard Dix made his real bid for fame in a little thing called "Cimarron." It brought him back from the laundry and suddenly he wasn't all washed up any more. He was hot stuff.

About three years ago friend Rick made his customary trip to the local tubs. Again he was due to be all washed up. The pictures after "Cimarron had been steadily less potent; it looked like a fade-out for Dix when RKO, probably cherishing past memories, signed him up again for a series of minor films. And it looked like last farewell when word got around that Dix, before resigning himself to decreptitude at the ripe old age of 44, was going to hobble out to little Republic studios in the valley and make a picture.

That was where the laugh, which is now Rick's, came in. The picture is "Man of Conquest," the story of fighting Sam Houston the Texas hero, and it is not only Dix's bid for a comeback but Republic's bid for recognition as a major film factory. Which means that they are shooting the works—to the tune of $1,000,000 just like a Metro or a Paramount or a 20th—and Dix can't lose.

It's true that Dix turned down the script in its first form, even though he's been wanting to play Sam Houston for years. But he reached for it quickly when the script was revised, and if there's a happier actor in town today I haven't found him.

Dix is a student of Houston and claims to know more about him than most people hereabouts.

They have Edward Ellis ("A Man to Remember") as Andrew Jackson, Houston's friend, and Joan Fontaine and Gail Patrick as the two romantic interests in Houston's life. They have already done the big "spectacle" scenes—the battle of the Alamo mission and the battle of San Jacinto, in which Houston defeated Mexican general-dictator Santa Anna and won the war for Texan independence. They have even forgotten (almost) the incident of the upside-down Lone Star flag which, later discovered in completed battle scenes, had to be rectified at a cost of $25,000.

Yakima Canutt, the cowboy stunt star, did tricks in the battle sequences such as he contributed to the thrilling Indian battle scenes of "Stagecoach—but even Yakima Canutt couldn't keep star Richard Dix from getting sore over his first horseback role in four years. (Rick wore the skin off his legs, and only recently has resumed sitting down with comparative comfort.)

The director is George Nicholls, jr., the same who "discovered" Anne Shirley for "Anne of Green Gables," since has made Republic's two best pictures, as well as a flock for RKO, and now is entrusted with the future not only of Dix but of Republic.

DAIRYMEN AND FARMERS TAKE UP PROBLEMS

2 Groups Hold Dinner Meetings Thursday, Friday Nights at First M. E. Church.

Richland county farmers and dairymen will discuss their problems and hear talks by farm authorities at two dinner meetings Thursday and Friday nights at the First M. E. church.

Two dairy experts are scheduled to talk Thursday night at the annual county dairymen's banquet which is expected to attract more than 100 farmers who make dairying a specialty. The dinner meeting will open at 7:30 p. m.

Speakers will be W. E. Krauss of the department of dairy industry, Ohio Egricultural Experiment station, and S. M. Salisbury of the department of dairy husbandy at Ohio State university.

Tells 'Why Cows Leave Home.'

Salisbury will talk on "Why Cows Leave Home," explaining how to avoid the diseases and practices that kill dairy cows or reduce their production.

The objectives of the 1939 federal soil conservation program will be outlined by Elmer F. Kruse, of St. Mary's, chairman of the state agricultural conservation committee, at a county-wide dinner for farmers at 7 p. m. Friday in the same church.

Arranged by G. L. Taylor, county chairman of the conservation committee, the Friday night program is designed to give farmers a better understanding of the new federal crop program.

County and township committeemen and their guests are expected to boost attendance at the meeting to more than 200, Taylor said.

WAR WOULD END BRITISH EMPIRE

That's Englishman's View of European Tangle; 700 Hear 3rd Institute Lecture.

gave a part of Czechoslovakia to Hitler last fall marked the end of French domination in Europe and the rise of Germany as the important power on the continent, Grimwade said.

The Munich conference in which Chamberlain of Great Britain acceded to Hitler brought a great change in the British policy in that it saw England endanger its position among world powers by helping to destroy the balance of power in Europe that has meant security for Great Britain for years, Grimwade said. Chamberlain virtually gave Hitler the sign to go ahead in his aggressive campaign, he added.

He asserted that he was sure the accession was made solely in the interests of peace, since it had been estimated that one week of bombing of London by a hostile air force would kill at least a million persons.

"The great majority of Englishmen are thankful to Chamberlain for his action at Munich, but we have become jitterbugs since then, because we don't know what the effects of the treaty will be," he declared.

"Mussolini is still a junior power in Europe, but he has aided Hitler by providing a nuisance value while Hitler continued his drive for more territory. All Mussolini got for his part in the Spanish civil war was some bloodshed, while Hitler was extending his Nazi influence through countless agents in Spain."

Says Hitler 'Courting' Reds.

The possibility of an alliance between Germany and Russia may mean Hitler will push westward into France and England rather than eastward as he has indicated, Grimwade said.

"Hitler has been playing up to Communist Russia in recent weeks, shifting his barbs from Russia to the United States and Great Britain," he added.

Grimwade doubts if Hitler wants a general war in Europe "for that would disrupt and virtually destroy the entire continent."

"Hitler prefers to continue his aggression with as little trouble as possible, rather than jump into a war in the hope of conquering the opposing little countries. He likes to see the minor powers fight for their independence, because that gives him time to extend the Nazi influence and envelope them.

"If America, in self defense, is to play the role England played as the arbitrator for Europe, we can only hope America will play it more skillfully. You Americans can promote the cause of peace by helping to bring about a United States of Europe."

Asked during the forum period that followed his lecture if the death of Hitler would mean the end of the Nazi regime, Grimwade said he believed it would continue under other leadership.

"The price of a planned economy is the destruction of every personal right, and the German people have paid the price and will be satisfied as they are until they finally decide they are hungry even with everything ideal as it is supposed to be under the Nazi plan."

C. OF C. SELECTS LANCASTER MAN

ation's annual "distinguished service" medal.

Routzon was in Cincinnati with a Lancaster C. of C. committee today and could not be reached for a statement.

He is expected in Mansfield Thursday to meet members of the chamber before he takes over his new duties in three weeks, Van Derau said.

Intensely interested in his work, Routzon has found time to divert his hobbies into city-wide projects. This is evidenced in Van Wert where he conducted annually a city-wide peony festival while he was instrumental in instituting a "backyard" playground program in Flint.

During his stay in Lancaster he took an active role in the successful drive to erect a $225,000 hotel.

Routzon is married to a former Mansfield girl, the former Carolyn A. Ashbrook. They have a nine-year-old daughter.

torcycle to replace a five-year-old model now used for traffic enforcement, and will also turn its attention to the hiring of a consulting engineer to conduct a survey of the Mansfield sanitary sewer system.

Legislation being prepared today by City Solicitor Marion D. Ward authorizes an appropriation of $2,500 from a special PWA fund, part of the balance from the construction of the sewage treatment plant three years ago, for paying an engineer to complete the survey already started by city engineers.

The measure provides that Service-Safety Director Earl A. Nist enter into a contract with an engineer to complete the survey for the approval of the state department of health before the filing deadline 60 days prior to the August primaries when council is expected to seek a bond issue to cover the cost of revamping the entire sewer system.

Council also will be asked to approve an appropriation of $13,350 from the waterworks surplus to finance the extension of water lines on five city streets.

Another measure to be acted upon calls for the transfer of $600 from the general fund to finance the city's contribution to a $1,460 flood control WPA-sponsored program within the city.

How to Make Better Cough Syrup Than You Can Buy

A Big Saving, and It's So Easy! No Cooking!

Cough medicines usually contain a large quantity of sugar syrup—a good ingredient, but one which you can easily make at home. Take 2 cups of granulated sugar and 1 cup of water, and stir a few moments until dissolved. No cooking! No trouble at all.

Then get from your druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. This gives you a full pint of truly wonderful medicine for coughs due to colds. It makes a real saving for you, because it gives you about four times as much for your money. It lasts a long time, never spoils, and children love it.

This is actually a surprisingly effective, quick-acting cough remedy. Instantly, you feel it taking hold. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes and makes breathing easy. You've never seen anything better for prompt and pleasing results.

Pinex is a compound containing Norway Pine and palatable guaiacol, in concentrated form, a most reliable soothing agent for throat and bronchial membranes. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

It is one of the greatest value triumphs the automotive industry has seen. In fact, it is such an amazing thing that the general public has not yet grasped its full significance. This is especially true with regard to price. Many people still believe it takes hundreds of dollars more to buy a LaSalle than it actually does. TUESDAY, MARCH 7, 1939.

Character Is Essential to Education.

WHILE the subject is so fresh in mind as to hold more than ordinary public interest, it appears timely to make reference to the responsibility resting on parents and teachers to at least make an earnest effort to acquaint all children with the fundamentals of right living—so that they may have a fair chance of avoiding pitfalls they are sure to encounter later in life.

A writer said long ago: "Character development is the great, if not the sole, aim of education," and it is Daniel Webster who is quoted as having said: "Educate your children to self-control, to the habit of holding passion and prejudice and evil tendencies subject to an upright and reasoning will, and you have done much to abolish misery from their future lives and crimes from society."

Unless character, will power and the essentials of law abiding citizenship are made a part of child training, in the home and in the school, then education becomes a liability instead of an asset, and potentialities for wrong-doing are increased rather than diminished.

Experience gained through centuries of slowly progressing civilization has so definitely established rules of right conduct as to leave no doubt in the minds of thoughtful persons that certain practices are beneficial and others detrimental.

It has been said: "The education of the human mind commences in the cradle," and it will scarcely be questioned that habits established in early childhood, as a result of observation and imitation, have a large influence in later life.

The cynical conclusion that "every man has his price" is based on an assumption of universal dishonesty, which—if true—would place things in a pitiable plight.

There is constant need for dependence on others to perform duties and assume responsibilities, in private and public employment, which require implicit confidence in their honesty, sobriety and freedom from habits that might interfere with work to be done.

Few experiences are more disturbing than to learn that confidence in a person has been misplaced, that there has not been a sufficient build-up of character to withstand temptations that cannot be avoided.

You may have noticed that a young child makes no distinction between what belongs to him and what belongs to his playmate. It is important that he learn this as quickly as possible—also that a small act of dishonesty can quickly lead to larger ones.

Some, unfortunately, do not acquire this knowledge until so late that they and others are made to suffer from the omission.

Healthier Nation.

NOT ALL the statistics have yet been assembled, but those now ready indicate that 1938 was probably the healthiest year in the history of the United States and Canada. That is, its death rate reached the lowest point on record, apparently only 7.7 per 1,000. Ten years ago it was 9.2.

Nine of the more serious diseases registered new minimum death rates, and a tenth, tuberculosis, tied its very low 1937 figure. For the second year in succession deaths from heart disease decreased, in large part because of the special fight against the form of heart disease which affects younger persons.

Unusually favorable weather is given as another reason for the general decline in the 1938 death rate, and a marked absence of influenza and other respiratory diseases often fatal to sufferers from heart trouble.

The report says nothing, of course, about the reduction in number of automobile accidents, which had some effect on death rate statistics.

Supervision But Not Control.

PERIODICALLY, legislative attacks on the banking structure of the country are started with a view to further extending the control of government over banks. These attacks sometimes gain for themselves a measure of public support.

This support, as a rule, is the result of a lack of understanding of the real issue. That issue is: Do we want the financial resources of this country, which are owned by all the people, to be managed by paid private business men—or managed by politicians?

It's easy enough to denounce banking and bankers. But a banker is subjected to stringent regulation. The law prescribes how he can and cannot invest the money entrusted to his care. Every safeguard has been created to protect the depositor. And a fall from grace brings swift and severe punishment.

Politicians are not financially responsible for mistakes. They make their own laws. They almost invariably thirst for more power. Give them control of the nation's purse-strings and no man can imagine the possible results.

Don't forget that our banking system has been the most successful in the world—and has served the people well, and that the people who own the money now hire the bankers, instead of the politicians hiring or appointing them to do as the politicians wish with the people's money.

The depression has been so bad that the number of telephones in use in the United States has increased only 11.6 per cent since 1932.

As nearly as can be ascertained, the New York world's fair is in commemoration of some historical event that is still being overlooked.

Although Charley McCarthy has been incorporated, it's quite likely that Edgar Bergen will continue as chairman of the board.

As between the two fairs, it has become largely a matter of whether feet hurt worse in San Francisco or in New York.

Some states are considering abolishing coroners—and if the first "r" gets ahead of the first "o", it's still all right.

Or, possibly, the Yankees could be limited to a seven-man team.

Too many people want their grist without the grind.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON — The constitution says the right of petition shall not be denied, and if ever there was a right more freely exercised it has escaped us.

Every day the first few pages of the Congressional Record are packed with petitions from groups and memorials from state legislatures asking congressional action, or inaction, on an amazing host of subjects.

Kansas legislators feel the government is chiseling on the distribution of revenue from the 10 per cent tax on sporting goods sales. Only $1,000,000 is scheduled for distribution to the states this year for wild life restoration, says the memorial, while "usually reliable sources" say the tax is bringing $3,500,000. Kansas says its share of one million is only $17,000, while if the "usually reliable sources" are right, it should be getting $57,000.

The governor and legislature of Arizona ask congress to continue the silver purchasing program, warning that many of her own mines and others in the silver producing states will fold up without such aid.

Stop Taxes—Pay Pensions!

DELAWARE comes in with a request that the government stop taxing gasoline and other motor fuels, asserting it has already gobbled up $1,500,000,000 since it invaded the gasoline tax field. Delaware thinks the states should have that tax to themselves.

The one-house Nebraska legislature asks enactment on one of the Townsend-style old age pensions.

Six hundred members of the construction industry meeting in Los Angeles petitioned congress to appropriate additional money to pay federal housing employes, where last year's appropriation had run out. The petition arrived on the very day the senate passed the bill and sent it to the president—so the builders can claim a bull's-eye there.

Gary, Ind., Lodge No. 1117 of the Steel Workers Organizing committee, petitions against amendment of the National Labor Relations Act.

From Hughes county, Oklahoma, comes a petition of 117 oil field workers protesting against operation of the wage-hour bill as applied to them.

Oakland, Calif., Townsendites petition for passage of the Townsend Act while the Daughters of the American Revolution of Providence, R. I., urge plenty of national defense.

'Don't Move That Ship!'

THE Rhode Island legislature submits a resolution objecting to removal of the frigate Constellation from its home port of Newport (where the Naval War college is).

"Sundry citizens" of Osborne, Kan., petition against shipping any more war supplies to Japan for use against China. On the other hand "sundry citizens" of Massachusetts petition for lifting the embargo so arms and munitions could be sent to Spain.

Faculty members and students of Smith college, Northampton, Mass., thought also that the Spanish embargo should be lifted.

Sixty-six citizens of Holyrood, Kan., ask congress for a processing tax on wheat or "cost of production-plus-profit" legislation to give the farmers a break.

The senate interstate commerce committee is considering legislation to level out freight rates to give the south a lift but the West Virginia legislature objects. West Virginia is in the territory of better rates—and doesn't want out.

The Montana legislature wants TVA to use copper wiring instead of aluminum which, it says, is mostly imported.

And we conclude with a petition from the commissioners of Atlantic City, home of national conventions, against spending federal money to build a municipal auditorium in Washington. They don't want any competition from THAT source.

SINBAD THE SOLDIER

Pope Made Many Friends In U. S.

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

THE new Pope is the only Pope I ever had luncheon with. He was not Pope at that time, to be sure. He was plain Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli. He's Pope now, however, not many months since that luncheon we had together, at the National Press Club, in Washington. There were four or five hundred fellow lunchers, but I sat not more than a dozen or fifteen seats away from our guest of honor.

Pope Pius XII

We liked the Cardinal. While this last Papal conclave was impending and in progress he had all of the National Press Club's best wishes—especially the best wishes of those who lunched with him; we wanted a Pope we are personally acquainted with.

However, early cables didn't indicate that our candidate's chances were very promising. He was Papal Secretary of State and during the conclave, he was Cardinal Camerlengo (that is, chamberlain). In other words, his role was important, but he wasn't particularly mentioned for the Papal throne.

Five members of the sacred college were conspicuously spoken of in dispatches as probabilities, but Cardinal Pacelli's name was not among them. This greatly fretted the National Press Club When the ticker brought first news that he was elected, after all, a chorus of rejoicing went up from the whole club membership.

New Pope's Personality.

Cardinal Pacelli visited this country on a never very clearly explained mission. It was quite widely reported that he came here mainly to put the husher upon Father Coughlin. That story can't be verified. It may be true, nevertheless.

Anyway, he was here, and the Press Club invited him to be its guest speaker.

He accepted and the club was flattered. Naturally all hands were wild to see and hear him. Tickets for that luncheon were at a premium. There was a perfect jam to get them. The club auditorium was overflowing. It took a police escort to get the Cardinal into the building. If it had been foreseen that he'd be tthe next Pope, I'll bet that it would have been necessary to call out the militia.

The then Cardinal proved to be very tall, very slender. Though an Italian, he has somewhat the physiognomy of an Irishman — that kind of a gub, as the Irish themselves describe it.

He was attired informally ecclesiastically, with a scarlet skullcap over his tonsure.

The Cardinal was extremely friendly and smiling.

He made a speech, too. It was in middling good United States language — a little broken, but highly creditable for anyone but a native.

In short, the new Pope knows something about us.

Against Dictators.

His record indicates that he doesn't like Nazis.

The Hitlerites intimated that they preferred a selection they thought they could boss. As they expressed it, they objected to a political Pope. I don't believe that Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli will be a political Pope, but neither do I believe that he'll take any orders from Adolf—or from Mussolini.

Briefly, I think he'll be a POPE—not any tool of Nazi-ism or Fascism.

Timely Editorial

Quail Needs a Friend Again.

The quail has been on the song bird list in Ohio since 1912 and deserves to remain there indefinitely. Repeated efforts have been made by hunters to legalize the slaughter of this charming songster whose beauty of note and markings gives a thrill to any rural or suburban scene. A bill is before the legislature now to take the quail off the song bird list. The Division of Conservation would be given the right to set off areas where the bird might be shot.

Obviously detection of illegal shooting of the birds under the proposed plan would be difficult if not impossible. Quail have a hard time surviving against Ohio winters and any slaughter of them puts them that much nearer extinction.

Ohioans again should raise their protests against making a sporting event of the extermination of one of the finest of wild creatures whose presence gives the outdoors a blithe grandeur.—Toledo Blade.

Sciatic Treatment Improved.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THERE has been a great improvement in the treatment of sciatica and neuritis in the last few years. Very important is diagnosis. I have recently seen two cases which were treated for over a year with a diagnosis of neuritis when the actual disease was obviously writer's cramp. As soon as the excessive writing which the patients did was forbidden, the condition cleared up.

Sciatica is pain along the course of the sciatic nerve, which is down the back of the leg. Almost all sciatica is secondary, either to focal infection or to dislocation of the bones in the pelvis, or pressure upon the nerve somewhere in its course. Postural defects are predisposing factors where the muscles are chronically overworked.

In treatment, the most important element probably is rest. Any motion producing pain in an inflamed nerve is harmful and increases disability. Any case in which pain is aggravated by motion should be put at complete rest until the acute stage subsides. Many cases never get well until the leg is splinted.

Other Remedies.

The fact that the leg is at rest need not prevent the use of other remedies. The hot water bag or the electric heating pad should be applied in acute cases. This relieves pain quickly and causes an increased blood supply to the part, which is one of the factors in overcoming the inflammation and restoring the nerve to normal. The use of the infra-red lamp or other forms of light is also valuable. Electric heat in the form of diathermy, which penetrates deeply into the part, is the most valuable of all and should be used where a diathermy machine is available. X-ray exposures are sometimes effectual.

Besides these methods which are palliative in nature, treatment by injecting into the nerve a solution either of salt, alcohol or quinine gives, in many cases, very good results. The injection is made with a long hypodermic needle and it is possible, without making an incision, to insert the needle directly into the nerve. The injection of a solution will deaden sensibility so that pain is immediately relieved.

Orthopedic surgery is also very valuable in certain cases of sciatica. The sacro-iliac articulation may be supported or fixation of the lower spine performed in various ways.

Of the other forms of neuritis, some are caused by external agents, such as inorganic salts of metals, notably lead arsenic and gold, and also substances used for cosmetic effect and depilatories.

The second group is due to deficiencies in diet. These deficiencies may be caused by some disease of the digestive tract which causes a limitation of diet, by underlying disease such as pernicious anemia or diabetes, or the vomiting of pregnancy, which prevents the absorption of antineuritic substances in the diet, and notably by the use of alcohol.

Alcoholic neuritis has an interesting and curious history. It was long believed that the neuritis which follows the use of alcohol was due to the action of the drug itself on the nerves. It is now known, however, that it is simply due to the fact that an alcoholic does not eat a balanced diet. In fact, he is likely to eat very little and to obtain his calories from the alcohol. It has been shown definitely that alcoholic neuritis can be prevented and cured by the administration of vitamin B, which is the substance that the alcoholic fails to ingest during his sprees.

A Farmer's Diary

The Old Bake Oven.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

BY THE old log house where my grandfather Byers lived, and where my father was born, and where I was born, there is still intact the old brick bake oven, by the side of the huge fireplace in the summer house. This side of the house was floored with flat stones,—a mixture of clay and lime between. On this floor my uncle used to split long thin hickory pieces and lay them in a rank upon two short rails against the partition in the back part of the room.

When Friday morning came, he would open the two iron doors that were fastened firmly by a hand-made iron strap extending beyond each side of the opening. He brought coals from the kitchen stove and laid them in a pile by the open doors of the spacious oven. Then he laid the hickory pieces on, and blew the coals with a hand bellows until they glowed white hot and began to kindle the dry wood.

How the new-made fire roared, and pulled the long flames away from the opening toward the other side where a small chimney stood! More wood was placed in the oven, and then the doors were securely closed, with only open vents in the lower parts. Through these I watched the reddened tongues of fire and heard the crackling of the wood.

When the fuel was consumed, my uncle opened the heating door and with a fine-tooth brush raked the remaining coals and ashes out. He called my mother. I can see her yet, testing the oven by slowly moving one hand within.

"'s ist heiss genug." (It's hot enough) she would say, and hurry across to bring the trays of bread, pies and cakes. The bread she placed in first.

Somehow I was always on hand when the doors were finally opened, to get the heavenly odors of that new-baked bread, the fresh sizzling mince pies, and the ginger cookies. Never in my life have I been happier, or danced about with more real joy, than at that climactic moment.

Sometimes a portion of the loaf would roll down outside the large round pan. That crust, with home-made butter, was the last word in excellence of taste.

No electric, wood or gas stove can ever give flavor to bread and pastries as that oldtime bake oven did. My memory is still rich with the odors of those priceless moments.

Bringing Up Father? Don't.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

MAGGIE AND JIGGS—maybe you think they're just an inspired comic strip. If so, you're wrong. "Bringing Up Father" is the No. 1 Domestic Problem of these United States. There are 27 million married women in this country, and it's a cinch that a good majority of them are vigorously engaged in turning some perfectly good grocer, butcher, plumber or window washer into a Marcelled Clothes Hanger with an Oxford accent.

Don't believe it? Then drop in and have a look-see at my mail, sometime. Consider, f'instance, the following authentic letter from a typical American Missis.

"Dear Elsie Robinson:—

"What should we wives do about husbands who refuse to read? Should we prod them on . . . or let them have their own way, even if it isn't for their best good?

"My husband, although vitally interested in current events, definitely does not like to read. Before we were married, I had wonderful dreams of our reading together. Now, after two years of marriage, we have yet to spend an evening reading. My husband's hobby is wood-work—the only articles he scans are those on that subject. All his extra time is spent in the basement.

"Now, I do not believe in COMPULSORY reading. But I do believe modern couples should be cultured. So we have compromised. I read a great deal. So I choose the tidbits and read them to him at breakfast and supper time. Yet somehow this method does not seem successful. HOW ARE WE WIVES TO HELP OUR HUSBANDS BECOME CULTURED? HOW CAN WE MAKE THEM REALIZE THAT FINE BOOKS ARE ATTRACTIVE NECESSITIES?"

Margaret W.,
Des Plaines, Ill.

There, undoubtedly, is a nice woman—charming, intelligent and completely devoted to her mate. Yet for some weird reason she shares the universal female conviction that ALL MALES NEED A FINISHING JOB. But why, Maggie? You wouldn't dream of slicing off your Darling's ears, subtracting a couple chins and carving a cutlet here and there, that he may present a more artistic ensemble! Yet you're assured that it is not only your wifely privilege but your divine duty to revamp his every interest and prejudice. How come? Is or isn't this the land of the free? Then if a guy prefers basements to books why should any woman dispute his preference?

Moreover, where'd all you girls get the Big Idea that the only reliable Kultur comes between book bindings? It just happens that literature is my job. I actually enjoy Messrs. Milton, Dante and Dostoyefsky without being shoved. Yet the idea of being fed "literary tid-bits" in combination with my corn beef 'n' cabbage rouses all my Irish ire. And I hereby announce without shame that if it takes a thousand years before I see my next Grand Opera, it'll be just too soon!

This idea of treating Culture as if it were a paint job, is the bunk, sisters. CULTURE IS A MATTER OF THE HEART, NOT OF THE MIND. Some of the noblest gentlemen I have ever known, and the most genuine ladies, have never read a book, walked through an art gallery or tasted caviar. Yet they have an instinctive desire for an appreciation of the fine things of Life. And they find them wherever they go . . . whether it be at a basement bench or behind a counter or following a plough.

As a bird will find water in a trackless wilderness and a deer will find salt and the wild gray goose a resting place, so by the same token a gentleman will find what his heart needs of Truth and Beauty. LET HIM FIND IT! AND KEEP YOUR HANDS OFF WHILE HE'S DOING IT! YOU'RE JUST A WIFE, SISTER, . . . NOT A SCULPTOR OF HUMANS!

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Before some one else beats me to the gag, I'd like to tell you that Willy de Mond is the big sock-and-stocking man from Hollywood. He's quit the sock business. His mother, who didn't approve of prizefighting, saw to that. And Willy's thankful because time and the tides of Hollywood have proved that there's a good deal more in hosiery.

Willy, ex-pugilist that he is, refused to take the count from Old Man Depression—even when that K-O king had knocked his New York hosiery business for a brace of runs. He went to Hollywood and since has become the film city's chief purveyor of sheaths for celluloid lovelies' gams.

Back in town for negotiations and such, Willy was cornered for luncheon. If any one knows more about Hollywood legs than Willy de Mond, get me his address and I'll make you a report.

WHAT Willy does is supply the hosiery for stars, bit players and extras on most of the pictures made. Don't get the idea that's any five-and-dime business, either. It's a pretty sorry budget that doesn't allow $10,000 for hosiery, and several pictures have run well over $20,000.

It's a mighty interesting business, too, because Willy doesn't just make the hosiery and send 'em over to the film factory. He goes along and is on hand to iron out all the problems that arise.

Like the time Lily Pons' hose were discovered to be a little off-color for the lighting and a refill on the order would have cost thousands in salaries because of the delay. Willy just pondered a minute, brewed a pot of tea and sprayed the tea right over Miss Pons' hose. When the day's shooting was over, Miss Pons doffed her hose to find that she had the most beautiful suntan that ever came out of a teapot. So entranced was the diminutive diva over the new coloring of her underpinning that she had tea sprayed all over her and played the rest of that picture without that suntan make-up that camera lighting requires.

WILLY came to the rescue again when Claudette Colbert was making "Zaza." Miss Colbert's opera-length hose wouldn't stay up. The set was in an uproar; Miss Colbert was in a snit. Willy pondered again, took two silver dollars from his pocket, twisted one into the tops of each of Miss Colbert's hose and there they remained until the picture was finished.

"That one was easy," says Willy. "I just remembered how the old Shakespearean touring companies used to hold up their tights—only they rarely had $2 in the entire company and had to use those lead weights women used to use in the hems of their skirts."

The one that wasn't so easy was the order Willy got on "The Story of Vernon and Irene Castle." The initial order called for hosiery for an all-color film. Willy started dyeing. He dyed for weeks—pinks, blues, reds, greens—only to discover when delivery was made that they'd changed their mind about the color and were making it in black and white. Willy's ears still burn from what the technicians called him as they juggled lights to get proper shading from those vari-colored hose.
